Wilson County Citizens;

I was hoping the threat of COVID-19 was subsiding, but it is lingering like a sore toe that you have to walk on so it will not get better. Restrictions have been loosened and people have been trying to get their lives back to normal again. Maybe a little too normal and a little too soon. More testing has been made available and more positive tests have shown up and still people are not abiding by the social distancing guidelines they once did, masks are not being worn as much as they once were, people sitting together at events or restaurants not of the same household, and the 6 foot distancing is getting shorter.

CDC guidelines have not been relaxed or loosened and recommendations to use these guidelines have not changed. Some people are just not abiding by them. Texas is still opening back up and the threat of exposure to COVID-19 is going to be even greater. If you are over 65 years old or have an underlying health condition, please limit your exposure. Stay at home, limit your travel outside your home to essential needs, use good hygiene practices, and if you must be in the public follow the CDC social distancing guidelines. These tips can and should be used by everyone.

This is a responsibility everyone should take on, be respectful of other people practicing social distancing to protect them. And take care of yourself, if you are vulnerable, isolate yourself. Remember you are the one responsible for yourself. Our numbers are changing daily. More positive cases are showing up and more recoveries are also being posted. Look on the county website for daily numbers.

Remember, stay home, stay safe, practice social distancing and good hygiene. It does not mean you don't wear a mask or practice social distancing unless it is mandated. It is highly recommended you wear a mask and practice social distancing and good hygiene. You are the one responsible for yourself so take care of you.
