SECTION ONE: QUALIFICATIONS OF THE DESIGN-BUILD TEAM

Teinert Construction (A Texas Corporation) was started in Lubbock, TX by Mr. Allen Teinert in 1982 and has grown to become widely regarded as one of the premier general contractors in West Texas. Teinert's success is attributed to our ability to build trust with our clients. We build this trust by providing quality construction, on time, while delivering a positive business experience from pre-construction through warranty.

Teinert has delivered projects through various methods including lump sum bid, negotiated, construction management at-risk, design-build and job order contracting. While over half of our volume is public work, we negotiate most of our work in the private sector through referral and recommendation of past clients. Our ability to use every client as a 100% positive reference is the life blood of our success.

Our personnel have the ability to provide a variety of construction-related services as well. From pre-construction through warranty and operations, we can help our clients achieve maximum success with their projects by providing schematic estimating, cost projections, feasibility studies, constructability reviews, quality control, and warranty, operations and maintenance programs among others.

In 2012, Allen Teinert took a critical step in laying out the future for the company. Mr. Chad Henthorn was brought on to the firm as an equity partner with eventual plans to become primary owner of the company over several years. Chad came to Teinert with experience in completing hundreds of millions of dollars of construction projects in Texas and Southwestern United States. The succession plan was part of Mr. Teinert's vision to establish Teinert Construction as a company that is built to last. In 2015, Chad Henthorn completed the purchase of the company with hopes of continued success for years to come. And, in 2016, Chad brought in Daniel Horton and Jacob Kirkland as minority partners to provide day-to-day oversight of all company operations, and Daniel and Jacob still act as Project Directors to ensure that the firm is providing the best service possible.

CRITERION THREE: RELEVANT PROJECT EXPERIENCE

Texas Tech University Stangel Hall Restroom Renovation

Value: $1,079,369

Completion Date: July 2014

Delivery: Job Order

The Texas Tech University Stangel Hall Restroom Renovation was another job order project where Teinert provided services similar to CM at-Risk projects. This project was awarded to Teinert prior to completion of the contract documents, allowing significant planning to be done ahead of time to execute the fast schedule.

The scope of the project included renovating all restrooms in Stangel Residence Hall during the summer. Because of the asbestos abatement required prior renovation as well as the 10-week time frame, proper planning and manpower resourcing was critical.

Teinert also replaced all of the windows in Stangel Hall and the adjoining Murdough Hall under a separate contract during this same time period.

The project includes holding cells, the original sally port, various offices, conference areas and control center. Challenges presented by this project included installation of two new elevator shafts through the existing pre-cast concrete T-beam slab.

A two-story atrium area was also created through this same slab. Careful coordination also had to be done to install the new central plant in the existing basement area.

CRITERION FOUR: PROJECT APPROACH

Attracting Qualified and Experienced Subcontractors

Teinert begins the process of working with qualified MEP trade contractors during the design phase. We use the expertise of our close trade partners to help budget and specify the project. This generates early interest in the project.

When it is time to put the project out for bid to trade contractors, we approach this in 2 arenas. We cast a wide net by advertising the project in the Associated General Contractors and FW Dodge publications for the surrounding region. We also use our bidding database at iSqFt to send individual invites to all the trade contractors in the region.

However, the key to getting the proper trade contractors involved is picking up the phone and having straight communication with targeted partners that we know have the experience and manpower to do the job. We will have an internal bidder's list that we use to call and email regularly throughout the bid process. In our experience, good old-fashioned conversation and relationships have the most success when recruiting the right trade partners.

CRITERION FOUR: PROJECT APPROACH

"You helped us get so much more out of our project than we initially expected."

Michael Sullivan, CEO
Community Health Center of Lubbock

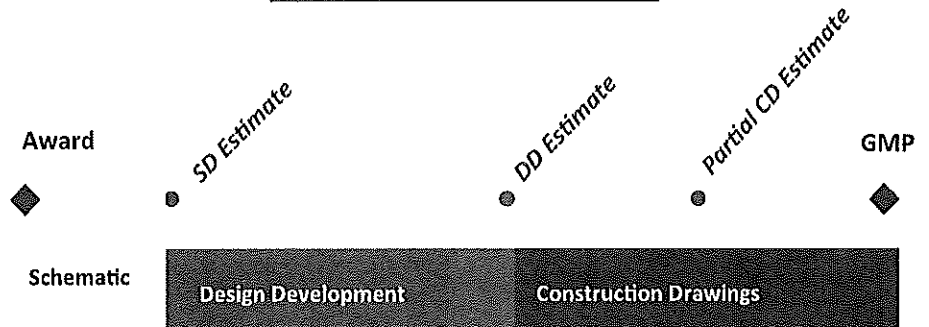

COST ANALYSIS METHODS DURING DESIGN

Teinert is prepared to begin cost analysis at even the earliest schematic stages of project planning. Our participation in the hard-bid construction market provides us with a database of real-time construction costs, and we use this information to help provide accurate, reliable conceptual and pre-construction estimating as part of our Construction Management Services.

In most Construction Manager at-Risk Scenarios, the CM will prepare an initial estimate at the schematic drawing stage. This estimate is updated with each new stage of drawings (typically Design Development Drawings, 75% Construction Drawings and again at 95% Construction Drawings). Teinert prefers to adopt a collaborative project delivery, in which we work with the design team on a consistent basis to provide continuous monitoring of the project budget.

TYPICAL PRE-CONSTRUCTION

This is 3D Model that Teinert recently used for clash detection and material take-off on the TTU Petroleum Engineering Renovation.

CRITERION FOUR: PROJECT APPROACH

"Being a Good Steward" - Examples of Success in Cost Control

"[Teinert does] so much work before the project ever gets started and are one of the few contractors I've worked with that actually know what a "buy out" is and give money back to the owner at the end of the project."

Kreg Robertson, AIA

UMC Business and Data Center

GMP: $20,784,000

Final: $20,116,000

Teinert worked with the design team to find an alternative mechanical system for the office areas. After performing life cycle analysis vs. up-front cost, we were able to change part of the building systems and give a significant amount of money back to the Owner.

Western Texas College Infrastructure Package

GMP: $12,580,000

Final: $12,801,000

Teinert worked with the electrical and HVAC contractors to find better routing for electrical primaries and revised mechanical room layouts. This saved the Owner enough to add $300,000 in added scope and still get almost $80,000 back at completion.

Texas Tech Petroleum Engineering Renovations

GMP: $7,413,000

Final: $7,212,000

Cost control was critical for this 7-phase project as funding became available at different times. Teinert + Parkhill worked with the design team to ascertain refurbishment vs. replacement of several mechanical items, and we developed a phasing plan that minimized mobilization.

Lubbock Meals on Wheels

GMP: $3,330,000

Final: $3,099,000

This two-phased project experienced a lot of Owner-directed changes as they remained operational throughout construction. Discipline with cost and constant cost feed back to the Owner allowed them to increase their scope and still save over $230,000.

United Supermarkets #555

GMP: $8,881,000

Final: $8,752,000

Careful monitoring of cost and maximizing efficiency on Owner-Furnished, Contractor-Installed items provided almost $130,000 in savings.

CRITERION FOUR: PROJECT APPROACH

SCHEDULE MANAGEMENT

Allen Teinert has a saying that is often repeated in our day-to-day operations. "OTOB - On Time, On Budget!" Our clients will attest to our ability to consistently complete projects on time. This starts with careful planning during the pre-construction phase. Teinert uses Microsoft Project to develop a Critical Path Method (CPM) schedule, and the Project Superintendent knows how to use the CPM schedule as a tool to ensure timely completion.

Maintenance of Critical Path Method (CPM) Construction Schedule

Teinert believes it is paramount that the Construction Manager control the schedule and provide constant direction and monitoring of trade contractors and vendors throughout the project. The primary scheduling tool Teinert + Parkhill uses to ensure timely completion of a project is development of Critical Path Method (CPM) schedule. Teinert uses Microsoft Project, a premier construction scheduling software, to develop the project schedule. From this master CPM schedule, other scheduling tools such as Look-Aheads, Fragmented Network Schedules (Fragnets) and Task Lists are employed to manage the schedule on a closer level. Teinert develops the CPM schedule prior to Subcontractor / Vendor bidding of a CM-at Risk project. The schedule is made available to all Subcontractors and Vendors during the bidding process to ensure that they can bid the project in a manner that is conducive to timely completion of the project.

Pull Planning

Pull Planning is a lean construction practice that Teinert employs to create buy-in and accountability for trade contractors with regard to the project schedule. A pull planning schedule board (see image to the left) will be installed in the project trailer. The columns represent days, and the rows represent trade contractors. Each trade contractor is given a certain color of post-it notes that represent their activities. There will be a weekly pull planning meeting where all trade superintendents meet to conduct this exercise.

Pull Planning boards at Richardson Elementary School in Dimmitt, TX

Methods for Schedule Recovery

Teinert uses all of the tools listed above not only to maintain project schedule but also to recover from schedule delays. It is critical to accurately update and maintain the project schedule to provide a true assessment of whether a project (or certain portions thereof) is behind. By properly maintaining a CPM schedule and using Look-Aheads, Teinert can quickly determine when construction is not tracking as necessary.

CRITERION FOUR: PROJECT APPROACH

Examples of Success in Timely Completion

Dimmitt ISD - Richardson Elementary School - $20.5MM

DELIVERED 6 WEEKS EARLY

Teinert used pull planning to overcome 70+ days of weather delays and over $500,000 of Owner-added scope from budget savings. This pushed the contractual completion date to September 21, 2018, but the teachers moved in the first week of August.

UMC Business and Data Center - $20MM

DELIVERED 1 MONTH EARLY

Teinert used pull planning to deliver this project a month prior to the substantial completion date, and Teinert + Parkhill returned over $400,000 to the Owner in savings from our analysis and value engineering of mechanical systems.

Western Texas College Infrastructure Package - $12.5MM

DELIVERED 3 MONTHS EARLY

Teinert took this project (which was originally to be 2 phases), added a 3rd phase that the Owner elected to do with savings from the GMP, and still delivered the entire project 2 months early. Teinert worked with the college to coordinate alternate classroom locations and expedite work. The college did their part by moving classes in areas temporarily, and Teinert was able to deliver the entire two-year project 3 months early.

Jones AT&T Stadium North End Zone Addition & Renovation - $4MM

START DELAYED 2.5 MONTHS DUE TO OWNER CHANGE IN SCOPE, PROJECT STILL DELIVERED ON ORIGINAL DATE

When the Texas Tech Athletics department made a decision to completely change the seating concept of this project late in the design phase, it delayed the original start of this project by over 2 months. Teinert developed a multi-shift work plan that allowed the project to take on the additional scope and still be complete for the 2016 football season.

Centennial Elementary School Addition - $2MM

DELIVERED 2 MONTHS EARLY

Teinert's careful coordination of two separate additions led to a workflow that allowed for completion 2 months prior to the contractual date.

CRITERION FOUR: PROJECT APPROACH

"Your team responded quickly and without question. Thanks for taking care of this issue after the warranty period!"

Mike Briggs, AIA
BGR Architects

TEINERT'S APPROACH TO ADDRESSING ANY WARRANTY REQUESTS INCLUDING PROCESS USED TO DETERMINE WORK IS COMPLETED IN A TIMELY MANNER.

Teinert believes that complete Construction Management Services include full service from pre-construction through the warranty period and beyond that.

We begin preparing for the warranty period during construction by maintaining a log of all required operations, maintenance, record and warranty documents. We gather these items from trade contractors as early as possible, typically starting at approximately 50% project completion. This means less time gathering data when we are at the intense period of completing the project.

We then keep a warranty log of all items that are reported as warranty items, the date they were reported, the date they were resolved, and any special notes. This helps us assure items are resolved in a timely manner, and it helps us track "repeat issues" that may be the manifestation of a bigger or separate issue.

HOW TEINERT HANDLES LONG-TERM WARRANTY ITEMS THAT MAY BE REQUIRED SUCH AS DOORS, INSULATED GLAZING, ROOFING, EQUIPMENT COMPRESSORS, ETC.:

Teinert does not believe in a one-year warranty. If you have an issue down the line that is a true warranty item, we will take care of it. Roof systems are typically specified to have an NDL Warranty of 15+ years, and we go to work for our clients on equipment warranty issues such as compressors, etc.
