

EVICCTIONS

INSTRUCTIONS AND INFORMATION REGARDING FILING AN EVICTION SUIT

An eviction case is a lawsuit brought to recover possession of real property. It may or may not include a suit for back rent.

WHERE: An eviction suit must be filed in the county and precinct in which the rental property is located, otherwise, the Judge must dismiss the case.

NOTICE TO VACATE: The Notice to Vacate must be in writing and must be considered a demand for possession of the property. The notice must be signed by the landlord or his agent and must include date and time of delivery. The notice may be hand delivered to the tenant or mailed.

TIME REQUIREMENTS: Unless there is a written agreement between the parties regulating the notice requirements, the landlord must give the tenant at least 3 days' Notice to vacate. Section 24.005 of the Texas Property Code sets out the notice requirements for eviction suits.

FILING THE SUIT: If the tenant does not vacate the property by the date given in the notice, you may then file an eviction suit. You will need to bring the following information to the JP office.

1. Date the Notice to Vacate was given and how it was given.
2. The filing fee of $149.00 if only one person is to be served.
3. Additional service fee of $ 95.00 per person named in the lease.

WHO MAY FILE: The owner of the property, his authorized agent or an attorney may file the eviction suit.

BACK RENT: A suit for back rent may be joined with the eviction suit if the amount due is within the jurisdiction of the Justice Court ($20,000). A statement that attorney fees are being sought, if applicable, must be included. You may only recover back rent, damages to the property must be sought in another type of lawsuit such as a small claims suit.

PROCEDURES AFTER FILING: A court date will be set 21 days upon filing the case. A citation will be issued to each tenant who is named informing them of the date and time of the hearing. The citation will be given to the Constable to be served.

THE HEARING: Either party may represent themselves at the hearing or be represented by his agent or attorney. Proper representation is essential. You will need to bring with all the evidence pertaining to the case. The burden of proof lies with the Plaintiff. You must still prove your case even if the defendant fails to appear.

JUDGMENT: At the hearing a judgment will be rendered for either the Plaintiff or the Defendant. If you are awarded a judgment for possession, there is a five day appeal in which either party may appeal this case to a higher court. If the defendant has not filed an appeal or vacated the property within 5 days, on the 6th day you may request a Writ Of Possession.

WRIT OF POSSESSION: If the defendant doesn't vacate or appeal, you may request the Writ of Possession. The service fee for the Writ is $150.00 and a writ of possession will be issued and forwarded to the Constable's office. This directs the Constable to schedule a move out and then served the tenants with the date and time that their things will be moved out of the property and set on the side of the street. It will be the responsibility of the landlord to provide manpower to do the move out.

Laws governing eviction procedures can be found in Section 24 of the Texas Property code and Part V of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure.
